Demolition of the makasiiniterminaali creates a public space with huge potential. Area's central and costal location makes it unique spot in Helsinki to create seaside living room for different public activities. Introduction of an art museum to this area removes the area's potential as a public living room. It defines the purpose of the area. The area will become partly commercial and mainly for the visitors of the art museum. In the proposal the art museum is combined with a public roof garden, which enhances the area's role as a public and open space, still combining the garden with the new art museum. The new building connects itself with the surroundings and the area delivers its potential as a public living room.
