Guggenheim Helsinki

The Museum is designed from the inside. It is a functional envelope capable of housing art in whatever form it might be in the future. It is a large gallery space that relates to the city.

From the outside, the museum boasts a very distinctive form, suggestive of natural element like a giant crystal or a snowflake in volume.

At ground level, the Guggenheim Museum is approachable from all directions. The visitor wanders between the spikes to discover an ample hall filled with natural light. A wide void connects all levels.

Level 1 houses temporary exhibition and administration offices around the central void.

Level 2 is the main level for events with a large Concert Hall.

The main Exhibition Area, located on level 3, is divided in 9 alcoves, each one framing a perspective of an iconic part of the city: Helsinki cathedral, Uspenskin Cathedral, Luoto...

The top level is reserved to the dining experience and the lookout.
