

- The museum represents a modern bridge within a city, following the natural vital flow of the urban space.
- The propose must be a building able to be socially self-sufficient.
- The proposal of this project is to build an edifice that includes closed space and garden where the people can meet or see the exhibitions .
- The presence of two bodies are connected by bridges which make the visitor an integral part of the exhibition spaces
- Sinuous forms and interrupted lines create a shifting balance in the harmonious alternation of open and closed spaces
- The user cancels the time used the work place, the school of the children, in consequence the traffic in the urban centre is diminished. This new concept of building gives birth to small city located inside the metropolis without obliterating the merit of the last one
