

GH-7329837923

Part C

Today technology of mobile becomes more importance and very close to life of learning and knowledge. New generation needs to be part of the present and learn trends for the future, let us think about an intelligent way of this adaptation... "Chromatophore" for camouflage to nature.

Guggenheim museum Helsinki will be part of the art trend of all time, a center of learning and exchange with local resonance and international impact, a center for business and innovation, arts and science capabilities, creativity, and adaptability promote the prosperity of its citizens and bring benefits to all, architecture must be a landmark play role as a mirror reflected native culture, be a part of context by exposing/opening a dynamic activities inside toward to the context outside with a transparent envelope. The spaces are designed in curve of infinity perception. Color of floors, walls and ceilings are all in white to support varieties of exhibitions, walls can be used as a projection screen.