

Press Summary

Nestled between the ocean and the city, the concept was inspired by the nature of the site, namely a maritime port, and unifies many elements like the ocean, the city, the environment, the venue, the building and the people. The greatest highlight of the concept is maximum openness, by which each visitor uniquely previews all active exhibitions before their exploration and enjoys equal chance finding out what is going on show and mapping out his/her own visiting route. Open activity zones are created on the ground level and the ocean-adjointing side of the site to host events, social gatherings, education campaigns, performances and entertainments.
